THE biographies listed in the Congressional Directory are furnished to the Government Printer by the distinguished gentlemen themselves. For years the loving cup for modesty has gone to Sen. Richard B. Russell. He lists none of his achievements, honors, relatives, degrees and former jobs. His biography runs merely one line: "Richard Brevard Russell, Democrat, of Windsor, Ga." For contrast, there is the biography of Chief Judge Paul P. Rao, of the U. S. Customs Court. It runs 92 lines and tells us more than anyone has a right to know about a stranger.
